

Ancient Greeks Ignored Women In Public Life

Dr. Woodhead Addressed Delta Sigma Society

ELECTIONS HELD

Intercollegiate Debaters Are Chosen for This Year—V. Shlakman Re-elected

The great legacy of Greece is marred by the low ideal of woman which it includes, in the opinion of Dr. Woodhead, who addressed the Delta Sigma Society yesterday afternoon on the subject of "Women in Greek Literature."

The meeting opened with the usual reading of the minutes by the secretary, which was followed by the report of last year's activities, read by the former secretary. The election of representatives to the society for the first and fourth years and for extra-R.V.C. faculties then took place, and Miss Quin, Miss Wood, and Miss Ruth Dow, respectively, were chosen in addition to the intercollegiate debaters were elected. They are Vera Shlakman, Alice Calder, Doreen Harvey-Jellie, and Rose Zahalan.

Dr. Woodhead's speech, which was the feature of the afternoon, outlined briefly the actual life of the women of ancient Greece. The attitude toward them taken by both the ordinary man and the poet and the character and position of the ideal Greek woman, and revealed particularly in the Greek tragedies.

Athena, so high in civilization in other respects, the speaker said, had a deplorably low ideal of women. Yet the pictures of women offered by their best poets show remarkable sympathy and understanding, and among the tragic dramatists are found some of the most enthusiastic champions of the recognition of women's rights.

The literature of a people reveals its civilization, Dr. Woodhead stated. This is especially true of ancient Greece. There men wrote when and how they pleased, on whatever topic they chose, and as rapidly or as slowly as suited them. There was no forced or mass production. There was therefore only a relatively small output, of which a few remnants remain, and one may feel justified in basing one's remarks about Greek society on these precious fragments.

30 Coeds Seek Higher Degrees

One Fifth of Graduating Students are Women

Out of 167 students registered in the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research, 39 are co-eds. The urge for learning grows stronger every year, especially among women. Thirteen of these women are working for their Ph. D. one in Zoology, one in Physiology, and one in Chemistry.

Though registration is incomplete, there are already 57 aspirants for the Ph. D. degree, and 116 for the M.A., M. Sc., and M.S.C. degrees. In the Ph. D. course registration in the different departments is as follows: physics, 2; bacteriology, 5; biochemistry, 4; physiology, 4; and botany, oriental languages, plant pathology, and zoology, one each.

Among the Arts Faculties, the English department heads the list with 23 candidates for the degree of M.A. Psychology has 12; economics, 11; classics, 7; French, 4; mathematics (German, Oriental languages and philosophy), one each.

Of the thirty-nine who are studying for the M. Sc. or the M.S.C. degree, 14 are in chemistry, 5 in physiology, 6 in plant pathology, 4 in physics, 2 each in civil engineering, geology and entomology, and one each in bacteriology, biochemistry, experimental medicine, mining engineering, and zoology.

Lycium Lecture

Professor Paul E. McCullagh, lecturer in Classics at McGill, will give an illustrated Lycium lecture in the Presbyterian church today at Chesterfield, Ont. Professor McCullagh's topic "A Bicycle Trip Through England" will deal with the beauties of English architecture and landscape.

Principal Will Be Present At Giant Banquet

Sir Arthur Currie and a large number of the Professors will be present at a mammoth Banquet of the Arts Undergraduate Society, which will be held on the seventh of November, at 7 p.m. in the Queen's Hotel with the object of getting all Arts' men to know each other. A ready committee has settled on a menu fit for a palace table. The excellence of the feast will cause even the lordly Sophomore to forgo vows of eternal friendship with the Freshmen, while the learned Juniors and lofty Seniors will cast aside and satisfy their craving for friendship.

Settle Plans For Junior Prom

Limited Number of Tickets Will be Sold

TAKES PLACE DEC. 6

Faculty Representatives Appointed—Will Meet Next Wednesday

The various committees for the Junior Prom have been appointed, and business has been commenced. It was announced today. This annual social function, which has always been so well attended in the past, will take place this year on Dec. 6, and attempts are being made to make it as successful as ever.

Tenders for an orchestra of seven or eight pieces have been called for, and must be handed in to Mr. Fletcher before next Wednesday noon, Oct. 30. The high standard of music which is always demanded will be required as usual.

Junior Prom naturally have the preference in regard to obtaining tickets, but as only two hundred in all will be put on sale, promptness will be necessary for those who wish to obtain them. If any tickets are not bought by juniors, they will be sold to the general student body, but as the demand will be great, such a circumstance is not anticipated.

The Students' Council will supply the funds necessary to finance the dance, but the general management will be left entirely in the hands of the committee which has been appointed to look after business matters. The members of this committee have been chosen from the junior year of each faculty, and are as follows:

R.V.C.—Miss Eleanor McKinnon, Miss Helen Thompson, Science—David Ellis, Commerce—Howard Baker, Medicine—Richard Hatfield, Arts—Howard Webster, Architecture—Kolon, Dentistry—William Oliver, Law—Charles White.

The next meeting of the executive for the dance will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 30, at 5:30 o'clock. As it is highly desirable to get matters under way as soon as possible, everyone is asked to make it a point to be present.

Much Mirth Marks Lawyers' Banquet

Mr. Justice Howard and Dean Corbett Speak

Sparkling legal wit and great hilarity marked the first banquet for the session of the Faculty of Law, which was held last night at the Queen's Hotel. Dean P. E. Corbett, Professor LeMcGuer, and Assistant Professor Scott were among the notable speakers of the evening.

The Toastmaster for the occasion was J. Ross Paterson, and the toasts of "The King," "The Alma Mater," and "The Faculty" were proposed. Matthew C. Holt, the president of Third Year Law, proposed the toast to the Alma Mater, and Mr. Justice Howard replied. The toast to the Faculty of Law was tendered by Robert Gammell, and Dean Corbett answered with words suitable to the memorable occasion.

In addition to these toasts, short speeches were given by Professor LeMcGuer and Assistant Professor Scott.

This dinner, it was announced, will not be the only event of its kind, but will doubtless be followed by others just as successful.

Organization Of Groups Aids In Development

Social Workers Heard Mr. W. Cook of Toronto

DETAILED WORK

Worker Now Has Respect for Personality in the Boy

"Group organization is one method of the development of character and citizenship," said Mr. W. Cook, Educational Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. at Toronto, and member of the International Y.M.C.A. Council, in his address to the Social Workers' Club at the Arts Building last night.

Mr. Cook outlined the evolution of group organization. At first the leaders tried to keep a crowd of boys off the street by providing attractive entertainment for them.

Then it was observed that the formation of a gang was a preparation for citizenship. The promotion of a four-fold program was attempted in these small groups; one element was physical, and three phases were mental, namely, truth, goodness and beauty. In connection with this principle, Mr. Cook quoted the following statement from the New Testament, "Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man."

"Next," continued Mr. Cook, "an approach was made through an agency. The church, the home, the school and the Y.M.C.A. sought to confer in working out a program for the life of the boys. Here the person in the centre was a social engineer and the boys played the part of the machine."

At present the leaders recognize the importance of individual approach. The aim is not to train a certain type of boy but to realize his own best. Consequently, the worker has now respect for personality.

Then the speaker discussed some of the questions which seem to puzzle the majority of the social workers. "How best to get to know enough of the group?" "Study the background of the group," answered Mr. Cook. Only by finding out the personal histories, the nationalities, the family lives, the interests of these boys, can the leaders help them. The speaker criticized the relying too much on devices, forgetting that real friendship is the only way of achieving their aim.

Mr. Cook concluded his address by enumerating the three things that (Continued on page two)

Supper Meeting Set For Tonight

Miss Rutherford to Address Members of S.C.A.

The S.C.A. of R.V.C. will hold a supper meeting at six o'clock tonight in Strathcona Hall. The assembly will be addressed by Miss Gertrude Rutherford, one of the National Secretaries of the S.C.M.

All women students, and especially those who have joined Study Groups, are cordially invited to attend. If they have not yet signed one of the lists posted either in the Women's Common Room at the Arts Building, or on the notice board of the R.V.C., they are urged to do so immediately. It is necessary that the exact number of expected covers be known.

A nominal charge of thirty-five cents will be made for the supper.

New Chancellor

Toronto, October 24.—Rev. E. W. Wallace was appointed chancellor and president of Victoria University by the Board of Regents of the college today, succeeding Chancellor Bowles, whose resignation was accepted at the last meeting of the board. The chancellor-elect is at present in the Orient, but is expected back in Toronto early in January, and will likely assume his new office on January 29. In the meantime, Dr. Bowles continues as chancellor. When his successor assumes the duties, Dr. Bowles will become chancellor and president emeritus of Victoria University.

R.V.C. TENNIS

Will Miss Z. Zuck and Miss H. Tait please play their match before noon today.

Memorial Service

A memorial service for the late Dr. Etienne S. Bisler, for several years an assistant professor of physics at McGill, will be held in Moyes Hall on Sunday afternoon, October 27th, at four o'clock.

This service will be conducted by Rev. Dr. A. R. Gordon, Professor of Hebrew at McGill and of the United Theological College. Dean Ira A. MacKay, of the Faculty of Arts, will give the scripture reading, which will be followed by an address in French by Pastor George Peck. Brief addresses by Sir Arthur Currie, Principal, and Dr. A. S. Eva will follow. The choir of the St. Jean French Church will conduct the musical service.

Dean Walsh Speaks To Dental Students

To Entertain Football Team at Luncheon

"Persistence and confidence in your ability to make good is the keynote of success. Consistency of study will bring you the success that is your due," stated Dean Walsh of the faculty of Dentistry in welcoming the Freshmen and new members at the first meeting of the Dental Undergraduates' Society, held last night.

At the conclusion of his address, Dr. Walsh announced that he would entertain the faculty football team at luncheon, prior to their game with MacDonald College. According to the sports manager, Dentistry has a football team that cannot help but win the interfaculty championship this year.

The annual dance was set for shortly after Christmas, and the Dental banquet will be held early in March.

Charities' Drive

The following representatives are asked to meet Lawrence Hart in the Union today at one o'clock. These people, as captains, are asked to bring with them the list of the personnel of their department's workers.

Library School To Conduct New Summer Course

Carnegie Institute Extends and Increases Grant

FINE RECORD

Diploma is Recognized Both in Canada and United States

The Library School, which is now in its third experimental year, has not only been provisionally and then finally accredited by the Board of Education of the American Library Association, but has just received further proof of its professional value in Canada by having its grant from the Carnegie Corporation extended and increased for an additional period of three years.

McGill has the oldest Library School in Canada, as the course of instruction was first established in 1904 by Mr. C. H. Gould, who was then Librarian, and four years later president of the American Library Association. The course at that time was only a four weeks summer session, subsequently increased to six weeks, and including such fundamental courses as Cataloguing and Classification, Reference Work and Bibliography.

Among those who have taught or lectured in the Summer Courses have been Melrose Dewey, the author of the Dewey Decimal Classification; Miss Harriet Peck, of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy; Mr. Sidney Mitchell, assistant Librarian of the University of California; Miss E. V. Dethune of the University of Library, and many others.

The winter course, requiring Senior Matriculation for admission, was established in 1927, with Dr. G. R. Lomer, the University Librarian, as director; Mrs. Mary Duncan Carter, as assistant Professor, and Miss M. Herdman, in charge of cataloguing and classification. Miss Marion V. Higgins, M.A., joined the staff last year. At the end of the first year 20 students received diplomas, and 11 last June. The present registration is 15. Former students of the School have been placed in various parts of Canada and elsewhere—notably in the Library of Congress, Toronto University Library, The University of Pennsylvania Library, The Brooklyn Public Library, and the British Embassy at Washington.

The plans for the future development of the School include the continuation of the present system of evening lectures in addition to the (Continued on page three)

S. C. A. Founds Service Bureau

Will Assist Churches and Settlements

The Students Christian Association of R.V.C. has established a Service Bureau, which it is hoped, will fill the long-felt need. For the future, in addition to study groups and discussions, an opportunity will be given for occasional voluntary service to such organizations as churches, settlements, and community centres.

This service will be rendered by supplying a pianist, violinist, storyteller, or similar entertainer for an evening to any outside organization. The work is almost limitless in its scope, including also all types of committee work from decorating tables to planning parties.

It is to be clearly understood that all of the work will be entirely voluntary, and will be allotted to suit the convenience of those who offer their time and efforts.

All interested in this type of social service should get in touch with a member of the R.V.C. Students Christian Association Cabinet, or phone Du Pont 2505. Information concerning groups in need of such assistance should communicate with the above.

Frosted Glass Gives Workers No Distraction

Hastily before any further hindrance should hold up the work, workmen yesterday were seen to be changing the glass that forms the windows of the basement of the Pulp and Paper Building on University Street, Kewey which had been accustomed to peer through the windows previously were wondering what all the to-do was about.

It was claimed that the assistants in the laboratory, which is situated in the basement, were being distracted from their research work by external influences. Being below the ground level they were in a position (Continued on page two)

Joint Gathering To Hear Author

J. Wise Will Address S.C.A. and Maccabean Circle

STRATHCONA HALL

"Religion's Changing Skyline" Subject—Meeting to Take Place Monday

James Waterman Wise, one of the world's outstanding younger liberals, will address a joint meeting of the Student Christian Association and the Maccabean Circle in Strathcona Hall, on Monday, October 28th, at five o'clock. He will speak on "Religion's Changing Skyline." Mr. Wise, who is a son of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, is well-known as an author, educator, and lecturer. He is to be the speaker at the People's Forum on Sunday evening, October 27th.

A keen student of youth's problems, Mr. Wise spent six months in Europe in 1927, making a study of European youth movements. His findings were afterwards published in a series of articles in the Century Magazine. Among his books are "Liberalizing Liberal Judaism," "The Future of Israel," "Synagogue Songs," and "Jews Are Like That."

In his undergraduate days, Mr. Wise attended Columbia and Harvard Universities. He spent a year in Cambridge, England, studying rabbinics under the direction of professor Israel Abraham, in preparation for the Jewish Ministry. However, he found himself unable to accept certain of the theological implications which the rabbinate seemed to him to demand, and withdrew from this study before his graduation.

Since that time he has devoted himself to writing and lecturing. At present, he is a lecturer at Columbia University in the Department of Semitics. Mr. Wise is Executive Secretary of Avukah, the American Student Zionist Movement.

Opportunity To Travel In Band Party Offered

The McGill University Band will travel to Kingston tomorrow under Bandmaster Wallace, and in cooperation with Cheerleader Max Ford. Opportunity is offered to students to travel in the band party at reduced rates for this game between McGill and Queen's. Applications for such transport should be handed in to Mr. Fletcher's office, at the Union, today before 6 o'clock.

The party will start from the Bonaventure Station tomorrow at ten in the morning, when a special car has been chartered for it. The members of the party will leave the train at Kingston and a special conveyance has been obtained to convey them to the Gymnasium at Queen's.

An extended stay in Kingston will be afforded as a special coach will be at the riding, to be hooked up to the daily train that passes through at 1:20 a.m. on Sunday morning.

Philosophy Can Be Of Practical Use In Our Life

Dr. Hendel Addresses Philosophical Club Meeting

DEAN PRESENT

Suggests Book Should be Read and Discussed During Session

"The real use of philosophy is to satisfy that human craving to think for oneself," said Dr. Hendel, the speaker at the first meeting of the Philosophical Club, which was held in the Faculty Room of the Arts Building, in the course of a brief and comprehensive lecture on the "Uses of Philosophy."

The President, Robert Pursley, opened the meeting by asking for suggestions as to the best night for meeting. Monday night was eventually decided on, and a fee of 25 cents for membership was arranged. The meeting was well attended, 55 being present, among others Dean Ira MacKay.

Dr. Hendel said the real use of philosophy was to satisfy that human craving to think for oneself. The introduction to philosophy, whether it be made through the study of economics, physics, or any other of the sciences, is an experience of intellectual integrity, which is its own reward. Discussing the matter in still greater detail the speaker said that in an examination of the general statement of the use of philosophy might be found in three divisions. In this modern world with all its rush and bustle, periods of tranquillity for reflection are essential. In those pauses one can think on one's own conduct and the world in general. This is the first use of philosophy—the natural moments of reflection, in which one develops one's personal wisdom and one's love of wisdom in the personal conduct of life.

The second use of philosophy is in the evaluation of things, so that one may see clearly. The present time is abounding with conflicts of political policy and thought, which the philosopher can settle in his own mind. Philosophy is essential to clarity of vision and the ability to help in public policy.

The third use of philosophy is the critical scrutiny of the sciences. One must be able to see the faults and fallacies in modern scientific theories (Continued on page two)

MONTREAL, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1929.

FEDERATED CHARITIES

IN COMMON with the rest of Montreal, McGill next week will sponsor the annual drive in aid of the Federated Charities. Plans have been made with Lawrence Hart as the organizer, and a corps of able captains who will have charge of their respective faculties. Each year the McGill list has been growing larger and larger, and each year the quota had been raised accordingly. Seeing that the students gave over $1,300 last year, the objective this year has been placed at $1,500.

People for whom this is the first season in Montreal have not had the unhappy experience of being stopped quite frequently on the streets and asked for the price of a cup of coffee and a shakedown. Begging in Montreal, authorized or otherwise, has become a stain on the city's character. But this form of obtaining relief is only one of the seasonal features of the city, for it is occasioned by the influx of hoboes for the winter. There are refugees and missions at which they can obtain aid if they are genuine, which is doubtful.

But there are those who need relief, whose cases are not doubtful and who are never seen begging on the street. That this should exist in a civilisation which claims to be of a high standard of prosperity is deplorable, but this is not the place to remonstrate with society. Other means and people more competent must deal with those questions. The fact remains that there are those who are not so fortunate in the possession of worldly goods as we are.

Their case is not seasonal and cannot be dealt with by a handout when the spirit moves us. All through the year there are Welfare Associations, charitable institutions and free clinics which are dispensing their services as best as their limited means can be eked out. Having no foundation fund and no definite income they find themselves in a precarious position at different intervals which, if not tided over by the Federated Charities, would mean that they would have to go out of existence.

The most popular way of obtaining money has been tag days, when offes sensitiveness was appealed to as not being in with the crowd and therefore a piker. The response was not genuine and only displayed the fact that one wanted to keep in with his fellows. Meanwhile this rage for tag days had grown so large and could be sprung by anyone who had a whim or a fad that it was hard to distinguish the good from the bad. Last year an editor of the Queen's Journal, wishing to show how easy it was to stage a tag day and how gullible hoi polloi were, had a tag day all for himself and netted some hundreds of dollars. Needless to say he justified his position by handing over the money to local hospitals, but it showed what could be done.

Realising this and endeavouring to do things in a business method, some thirty charities or more used the sound system of centralisation and pooled all their efforts in a Federated Charities Drive. The appeal was made on the grounds that after having once given to the Federated Charities the poor, much-chased contributor could honestly say that he had given to all the charities in which he was interested.

It is true that not all the charities in Montreal are represented and not wholly sustained by the Federated Charities, but the major and most active and worthy are included in the number. If all the charities were included the objective of $640,000 for the whole of Montreal would be ridiculously inadequate.

Considering the status of the student, especially at this time of the year with regard to money matters, and now that the Book Exchange is paying out, the objective of $1,500 is a very small quota. This should be easily topped, as in former years, and when Christmas comes we may have the satisfaction that there is someone enjoying the festive spirit as well as ourselves. When the heat comes and we are away by the side of the lake we shall know that city mothers and their children are in the cool of the mountains. When we are on vacation we shall know that children in the city, who have no opportunity to play in the country, have playgrounds provided for them inside the city. When we have given we shall feel that our heart has grown a little bigger.

THE STUDENT DIRECTORY

IN THIS issue of the Daily will be found a list of names of people, and it will be supplemented in future editions, who are delinquent in providing those particulars which are essential for the completion of the Students' Directory. If there ever was a boon which came to the student body at large it was the introduction of a directory complete and accurate, of all students registered at McGill and the affiliated colleges.

Past years have seen the Directory on the campus by the middle of November. If there is a genuine response from those who have failed as yet to give full particulars, no real reason can be seen why the Directory should not be out by the accustomed time. The full draft of students names is in form of copy now at the Students' Society offices, and waits only for the finishing details.

Those who have had the full use of the Directory in past years are not behind in their part of the work, and perhaps it is that group who do not realise the full significance of the undertaking which is lagging behind. If it is any one of the other group then it is not to their credit. People must remember that the names which one person obtained at the conversat are not the full requirement of the whole of the students.

From the University Gazette, Vol. 1.

No. 1, 1873.
PROSPECTUS

It affords us great pleasure to be able at this time to announce to the alumni and friends of McGill that settled arrangements have been made by the students of McGill College for the publication of a paper devoted to the interests of students, the university, science and literature.

The faculties of the University are not responsible in matters connected with the forthcoming Gazette. . . . One of our fellow students will spend the next session in the Paris University. Another pursues his studies during next year in Germany. Another goes to Harvard. Arrangements have been made with them which secures them as our special correspondents for the session of 1873-1874. . . . The annual subscription will be $1.00.

Athletic Sports at McGill

As an organ of college students the Gazette will devote an adequate amount of attention to all subjects connected with their physical development. . . . Baseball and lacrosse have never been favorably received at college but football is the game most played and the one at which we are most successful. For many years past there have been annual Town vs. Gown and Arts vs. Medicine matches, but the practice games for these matches have not been well attended and in every respect there was indifference in regard to united play. During last fall however the play was much better, the practice games were largely attended and though matched against a much stronger team the results of the two Town vs. Gown matches were very creditable to the students. The reason of this is the occupation by the medicals of their new building adjoining the new building of the university.

Faculty of Arts

The most important event which has occurred in this faculty during the past year has been the advent of the Reverent Prof. Murray, formerly of Queen's College, Kingston, to fill the chair of Mental and Moral Philosophy, rendered vacant by the decease of the late prof. Forbes.

of disadvantage for, whereas passers-by had but to look down, they had to crane their necks upwards and then only see feet and legs.

Many are the people who pass by those windows. There are all the scholars who attend the Montreal High School, who stop and look like their grandfathers used to at the village forge. The Annex to the R.V.C. is but a little farther up the street and then but few paces on is the home of the M.S.P.E. The distraction was great. On enquiry it was found that the glass had been changed from the common transparent kind to the frosted moulded type to keep in with the style of architecture of the building.

Daily Ramble In Parnassus

Little lady of my heart!
Just a little longer,
Love me: we will pass and part,
Ere this love grow stronger.

I have loved thee, Child! too well,
To do aught but leave thee;
Nay, my lips should never tell
Any tale to grieve thee.

Little lady of my heart!
Just a little longer,
I may love thee: we will part,
Ere my love grow stronger.

Soon thou leavest fairy-land;
Darker grow thy tresses;
Soon no more of hand in hand;
Soon no more caresses!

Little lady of my heart!
Just a little longer,
Be a child: then we will part,
Ere this love grow stronger.

and only the philosopher can do this. Philosophy helps us to regain courage in the face of baffling scientific truths.

Finally Dr. Hendl said he did not want to plan the programme of the Club too far ahead, because such a club should be for the mutual discussion of the experiences of its members. He also suggested that a symposium would be an excellent form of discussion, and that the club should read a set book and discuss it at the meetings.

In the ensuing debate Mr. D. Macmillan said that perhaps the ultimate use of philosophy was the contemplation of all types of human existence. Mr. L. I. Sharp suggested that some of the Professors and workers in the Physics Department should be invited to speak, because the new movements in physics were so intensely interesting. Mr. Taylor said that too much stress could not be laid on epistemology, and also warmly supported Mr. Sharp's suggestion.

The last speaker was Dean Ira Mackay who stated that he had no doubt of the existence of a lively philosophical club in the near future. He said that he thought the uses of philosophy were looking at things with an unflinching eye, and the sheer enjoyment of things.

Do not hasten trouble; it arrives on time.

HEALTH

You know its value. The University Authorities arrange for a health examination of every student. They know that you cannot make the best use of the educational facilities offered unless you are in good health.

CAN THE FEDERATED SOCIAL AGENCIES DO LESS for over 10,000 boys and girls and the mothers and fathers who depend upon them?

Federation knows that its health service to them is inadequate. It is being improved year by year. It costs much money to maintain the 17 Child Welfare Health Centres and medical, dental, and nursing services for our institutions and social settlements.

IN SICKNESS ALSO

Federated Agencies stand by — day and night — all the year round.

The Victorian Order of Nurses
The Brehmer Rest
The Murray Bay Convalescent Home
The Diet Dispensary
The Epileptic Institute

Laurentics Beat Seconds By 4-1

Campus Scene of Soccer Struggle Yesterday

MATCH TOMORROW

Will Meet Harlequins—Rain Slows Up Play

Slip...slither...miskick...flop! that just about describes the soccer match between the Reserves and the eleven from the S.S. "Laurentics" yesterday afternoon, on the campus. Playing on a treacherous ground a very good brand of soccer was hardly to be expected, and the match turned out to be a very mediocre exhibition of football, with the seamen having the edge of the play, winning by 4-1. Owing to the match having been arranged at the last moment, several of the regular Seconds were unable to play.

Coates, Mannion and Henry played well for the McGill team, whilst Hankinson, Steel and Davenport showed up best for the ship's team, the big back being a power of strength on the defense, making things hard for the Red forwards. Steel, Davenport and Taylor scored for the "Laurentics," and Henry scored the Reserves' lone tally on a pass from Coates.

Mr. J. Campbell handled the whistle.

The teams lined up as follows:

McGill	Goal	Laurentics
Sud Horn	Right Back	Roberts
Hallett	Left Back	Wilkinson
Coates	Right Half	Hankinson Capt.
Hicks	Centre Half	McBride
Mannion	Outside Right	Williams
Bill Barclay	Inside Right	Ramejks
Henry	Centre Forward	Taylor
Joe Altner	Inside Left	Steel

Machin Davenport
The Seconds have a match tomorrow afternoon with the Harlequins, the Sun Life team, by whom they were defeated last Saturday. The teams will kick off at 2 o'clock sharp. The following will turn out for the Reserves:

Evlyn; Gillard and Sparks; Smart and Mannion; Clarke, Coates, Leitch, Gamble and Machin; Sinclair, Barclay, Reece and Henry.

Mr. J. Campbell will handle the whistle. Linesman, H. Hicks.

consequently he led a very active life, mentally and physically, in which woman had no share. She led a confined life from childhood to death, subject to the family in childhood and the private property of her husband after her early marriage. Trained only in domestic duties, she could not take the part of an understanding companion to her husband, and her position was rendered more unbearable by seeing foreign women educated and enjoying the society of men, and participating in public entertainments. Of these latter, Aspasia, wife of Pericles, is a famous example. Only in Sparta did the women enjoy any freedom, and in society there a type of woman much resembling the modern athletic girl was common.

Greek literature reveals a remarkable understanding and sympathy for women, the speaker stated. In Helen of Troy, Homer seems to have epitomized all womankind. He shows her at first as a trait wife, alluring and dangerous, and later, as a model companion to a husband. Penelope offers a picture of a faithful and inimitable woman, true in face of all temptations. Nausicaa offers something very different. A fresh, lovely, young girl, frank and courageous. Andromache is famous today in a thousand suffering women.

The succeeding generation of course takes a very gloomy view of woman. The well-known idea of them as creatures of great physical beauty, possessing a charm that is a snare, is held by them. They are false creatures, underhand and dangerous, but this period goes by, and with the great tragic dramatists come the champions of women. Aeschylus deals with humans as gods, said Dr. Woodhead. Sophocles speaks of them as they ought to be, and Euripides takes them as they are. In the work of Euripides, the cause of woman is defended. In more than one play he deplores their humiliating position, and the lack of consideration shown them. Plato goes still further. He

SENIOR RUGBY

The following members of the Senior Rugby Squad will enter for Kingston at the Bonaventure (C.N.R.) Station at 12.30 to-day: Littlefield, McTeer, Young, Smyth, Krutzweiser, Urquhart, Chard, Church, Swabey, Russell, Jacquays, Nichol, Halpenny, Munro, Granger, Wilson, McGillivray, Matheson, Stewart, Taylor.

Cagemen Start Season Monday

Coach Van Wagner Calls First Practice in M.H.S.

The McGill basketball season will start on Monday next according to a statement by Coach Van Wagner yesterday. On that day the first practice will be held in the M.H.S. gym and a large squad is expected. The red hoops were most successful last year and enthusiasm is bound to be at a high pitch this fall especially as McGill will have two teams—one in the Intercollegiate series and the other in the Senior City League. This will give every basketball enthusiast of any ability a chance to perform throughout the season.

At present it is not known just what veterans will be back in harness but there is a fair nucleus of last year's team still in college and rumor has it several flashy newcomers will be on the floor on Monday.

Exhibition games will start in a few weeks against local squads so that the team may be tuned up for the intercollegiate series later on in the season. Two exhibitions against Middlebury College and Vermont will also be played during December so that the season will be especially attractive.

There are still a couple of vacancies for the positions of Assistant Manager. All candidates should see Coach Van Wagner without delay.

Junior Rugby Notes

By T. J. L.

Things look great in the junior camp for their game against Bishop's tomorrow. There are no casualties.

Bill Sellar, one of the mainstays on the half-line will be out of the game due to business reasons, but he will be replaced by a reliable substitute, Johnson.

Captain Max Bell has been going great lately. His end-running is a treat to watch.

The line is holding well, as was witnessed in their workout against the Seniors last night. Kaufman, Howard, Fyske, Shacter, Mullaly, Christmas, Hilliard, and Neeland, may be accounted for to stop any Bishop attack.

The sub line is well-balanced, and is ready to fill a gap at a moment's notice.

Quarter Newton calls them loud enough to get a response of energy and pep that besmacks a championship team.

would give them equal opportunity in all spheres of life, leaving ability to decide the status of each individual.

In conclusion, Dr. Woodhead pointed out that the emancipation of women, advocated two thousand years ago, was only now being accomplished, and he sees in the modern achievements of women the ideals of Plato being put to some extent into practice.

Following the address, tea was served, and Dorothy Ross thanked the speaker on behalf of the Delta Sigma Society.

Intermediate Rugby

The following will report at the Field House today at 3 p.m. for the Quebec trip, bringing their own kit bags or suitcases with them for their equipment: Johnson (D. S.), Robertson, Cousens, Greenblatt, Small, Lovering, "Chief" Davis, Harry Church, Lapin, Baker, Dixon, Riches, Blundell, and Talpis.

Larger Turnout For Coach Light

Boxers Crowd M.H.S. Gym in Yesterday's Workout

The boxers were at it again in the High School gym last night. Coach Bert Light is not wasting any time and he keeps the men working at a fast pace.

The coach again went through the various blows and methods of defense last night. Most of the squad showed the effects of the excellent training which they have been receiving. Two more weeks should see the start of hostilities in the elimination bouts which are held every year.

These eliminations cannot be held in the gym owing to the lack of a proper ring and the erection of a ring in the stadium field house will enable the pugilists to show their wares shortly.

Quite a few of the men in the lighter weights are hard at work in an effort to make the team. There is ample competition and this ought to keep the contenders on their toes.

Both Murray, Kussner and Sampson, veteran boxers of the red and white have been practicing faithfully. Kussner is not anxious to relinquish his championship and is making a strong bid to maintain his good record of last year. Sampson, always a heady performer, looks much better than last year and should be able to fight off competition for a berth.

Last night's workout drew another large attendance. Every one seems to have obtained the proper fighting spirit and by the time the eliminations start there will be no doubt be plenty of close decisions handed out.

Fencing Notes

After the regular practice of the Fencing Club on Wednesday afternoon, a meeting was held for the purpose of choosing a man to represent the Club on the Council of the Province of Quebec Fencing Association. B. O. Boissonnault, App. Sci. 4, was elected by acclamation. A suggestion was made that the Fencing Club have a more complete organization than that which exists at the present time. Some of the members believed that it would be desirable to have several officers in the Club. Discussion of the matter was deferred until a later date. A third piece of business concerned the matter of appointing men to attend the School for Judges which is to be conducted under the auspices of the P.Q.F.A. It was decided that no one in the local club would really be qualified to attend the sessions of the school since the foil is the only weapon used in the McGill tournaments.

Through the generosity of the Athletic Board, a supply of jackets and plastrons was added to that already on hand. Jackets and masks were assigned to many members of the Club on Wednesday afternoon and the other men should receive their equipment this afternoon or Monday. The fencers are required to sign a receipt at the time the masks and jackets are distributed and it is understood that the articles will have to be surrendered at the close of the current season. In the past it has been customary to use the fencing trunk as a grab bag. Each man has been forced to make a dive for a mask and a jacket at each practice. Moreover, the equipment has not been kept in the best of condition due to the fact that common property is rarely respected by everyone. Last year, masks were assigned and the experiment was so successful that an extension of that policy has been put into effect. Each fencer is expected to be responsible for the good condition of the articles which he has borrowed from the Club. Lost or damaged equipment will have to be paid for.

Unfortunately, all of the locker keys have not been received. Therefore, it is impossible for the manager to assign lockers to some of the new men just at present. It is hoped that the keys will arrive shortly however. The last two practices have not been well attended. There were about an half dozen beginners present on Wednesday and it is certain that they must have profited by the drill. It is only by regular attendance at the practices that one may expect to become skilful in the use of a foil. Moreover, the Club is not able to supply equipment and lockers to men who are not interested enough in fencing to turn out at each of the meetings. Those who are absent too frequently will be asked to surrender their keys, jackets, and masks in order that more deserving individuals may be accommodated.

It is not too late for any men who are in the University and who have not joined the Fencing Club to start fencing. A little conscientious effort on their part will make up for the few weeks of training which they have missed.

And then there's the Scotchman who married a rosy checked girl because he wouldn't have to buy her any rouge.

ENGLISH RUGBY

The following men will meet at Bonaventure (C.N.R.) station today noon not later than 12.15. Bring all equipment and have lunch before entraining. Kincaide (Capt.), Luke, Hanbury, Charlewood, Nelson, Skinner, Price, Boright, Duggan, Hatfield, Langstroth, Riecke, Chalmers, Fogarty, R. Grimes-Graeme.

Ruggers Leave On Varsity Trip

Strong McGill Team to Defend Intercollegiate Laurels

The McGill English Rugby team, intercollegiate champions for the last two years, leave today on their annual Toronto invasion. The game to be played against Varsity will be the first of a home and home series—total points to count.

The strength of the blue and white is an unknown quantity but unless they spring a decided surprise McGill should stand an excellent chance of returning home with a lead on the series. After a slow start the local fifteen has shown a fair form in its last two starts and with the squad at full strength, optimism is rife.

The McGill team is recruited mainly from B. C., the Marlboroughs and England so that none of the players are entirely inexperienced.

The McGill line-up will be as follows:—

Fullback Hart; Three-quarters Riecke, Chalmers, Fogarty, Grimes-Graeme; Halves Langstroth, Duggan, Hatfield; Forwards Luke, Hanbury, Charlewood, Nelson Skinner, Kincaide (Capt.), Price, Boright.

Badminton Popular

Co-eds Hold First Meeting and Discuss Plans

The first meeting of the R.V.C. Badminton Club indicated that the co-eds were enthusiastic to pursue that sport. Business matters were discussed with Laura Newman presiding. Tuesday afternoon 4-6 proved to be the most convenient time for the majority of the players. The election of officers took place and Margaret Holliger and Sylvia Latham were elected vice-president and secretary-treasurer respectively. The discussion of membership was postponed until later in the season.

For the convenience of the members who can not play in the afternoons, one night a week is to be selected. Plans were brought forward regarding the question of team work and the club is looking forward to a very active and diverting season.

THEOLOGY SOCCER

The following men will represent Theology in the game vs. Arts-Commerce, on Tuesday next, Oct. 29th, at 4 P.M.

Wolfendale, Gillard, Coates, Smith (A. W.), Pollard, Bursell, Simpson, Wolff, Mills, Machin.

Reserves:—Hallett, Faneil and Smillee.

Please turn out promptly at 4 P.M. so that the game may be finished in daylight. All Theologians are asked to wear white skirts or jerseys. Anyone who cannot turn out for the game should let me know at once, or at the latest on Monday next.

TRACK UNIFORMS

Members of the Senior Track Team with the exception of the men who are to compete in the relay race on Saturday, are asked to return their equipment to the Stadium as soon as possible. The intermediate team on Friday afternoon will require outfits and these must be returned by the seniors before they can be issued to the second team.

The uniforms will be returned to the seniors in time for the annual picture.

Canuck Athletes Spotless Claim

Carnegie Foundation Finds No Evidence of Corruption

New York, October 23.—The Carnegie foundation for the advancement of teaching today made public the elaborate results of its searching, and in some respects sensational investigation into college athletics particularly football, in the United States and Canada.

The foundation report, which may become famous as "bulletin No. 23," in its revelations and effects, runs the gamut of methods, practices and conditions, but focuses principally upon what the investigators characterize as "the deepest shadow that darkens American college and school athletics," the widespread practice of recruiting and subsidizing athletics.

The inquiry consumed more than three and a half years, entraining personal visits to 130 American and Canadian colleges, universities and schools, and involving the co-operation of more than 2,000 persons.

An interesting feature of the report disclosed that in only 23 of the institutions studied was there no evidence found that athletes were subsidized. And of this number seven of the institutions were Canadian. These were listed, as follows: Dalhousie, Laval, McGill, Ottawa, Queen's, Saskatchewan and Toronto universities.

Drawing attention to football scouting, the report points out that this practice is considered "unsportsmanlike" by the Canadian institutions of learning.

"Those who tempt young men to barter their honesty for the supposed advantage of a college course, dishonestly achieved, are the Fagins of American sport and American higher education," declares the bulletin.

Placing the responsibility squarely upon the shoulders of college executives, the authors find that "in the murky there are many lighter patches" and that "the university or college that under capable leadership, makes up its collective mind to cast out these practices, can do so."

"In Canada a far larger proportion of university athletes come from the more prosperous classes and are maintained entirely by their families. The needy athletes is comparatively rare and even when he exists he does not expect special consideration. In addition, Canadian university sportsmanship is sufficiently strong to prevent recruiting."

GRASS HOCKEY

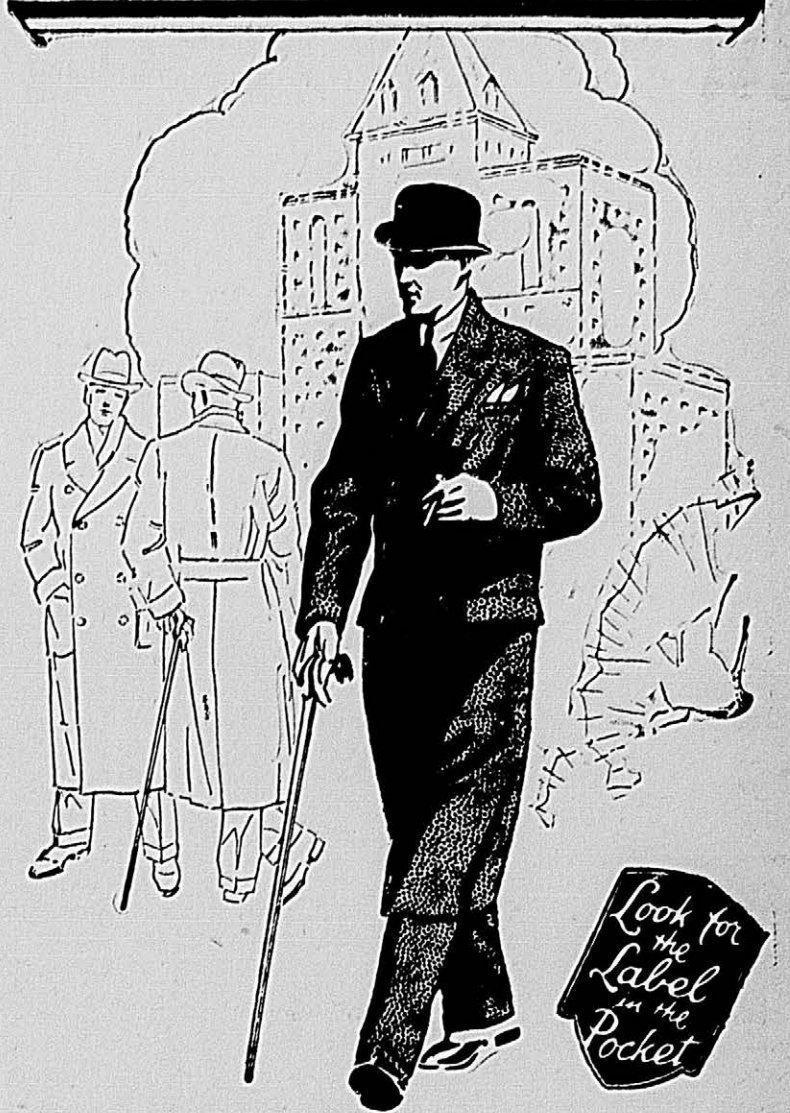

The field hockey game between the Royal Victoria College and the girls from the M.S.P.E. which was to have taken place yesterday unfortunately had to be postponed till next Thursday on account of the wet weather. Joe Pluvius sent the Amazons scurrying to cover and thus prevented what was to have marked the start of hostilities between the two Women's Colleges in this new branch of sport.

An effort was made last year to introduce field hockey into McGill and was met with great enthusiasm by the fair sex. Several strenuous practices have been held so far this year at the Stadium and both teams have been rounding off the rough edges in preparation for the "Crosstrial" encounter. It is hoped that a good crowd will be on hand when these two teams wield the hickory next Thursday.

Industrial Tours Help Students to Decide Careers

Plans for visits to local industrial plants were discussed at the organization meeting of the Mechanical Club, held in the Science Building last Wednesday afternoon. Keith Wallace was elected President and Mason first year representative.

These proposed visits were stated to be very useful to all students, especially to those in science as they may help them to decide upon what branch of Engineering they will specialize.

Owing to the numerous other evening activities in which science students are interested, it was decided to hold no evening during the season meetings. There was a very large attendance of men of all years; membership is open to all members of the University, but men in pre-science and first year science are particularly urged to join as it is in the opinion of the executive, a real help to them in choosing their career.

It was decided that the Club fee should be $2 per session. The visits will be announced in the "Daily". The Club executive is: Hon. Pres: Prof. Roberts; Vice-pres: R. Wallace; C. W. Crossland—who presided at the meeting—Sec-treas: Frank Denis; 2nd year representative R. A. Sanction; 1st year representative Mason.

Correspondence

The Editor, McGill Daily, Dear Sir,

Your editorials, so far, have been a sheer delight. Doubtless this accounts for the extraordinary amount of "filler" in the rest of the paper. But we come not to cavi but to praise. In Wednesday's "Daily" the leader entitled "Being Ourselves" struck us with its truth and set us thinking—a rare occurrence we assure you.

Why is there such a lack of spontaneity at McGill? Why is it that the Town and Gown are so hopelessly merged that to the majority of McGill students the "Gown" represents merely a few boring lectures, the "Town" their entire social life? Why is it that there is no feeling of corporate unity at McGill?

We have a thesis—Organised Cheering kills spontaneity. If a man is trained to yell only what a cheerleader tells him to, it is unlikely that his native wit will sparkle any brighter for the treatment.

Conventions are notoriously dull affairs and that of last Spring was no exception. An attempt was made to inject so-called "pep" into the proceedings, the method resorted to being, again, Organised Yelling. It was a hopeless failure. Only one thing happened spontaneously. When Mc-Kenzie King dramatically put the rhetorical question "What is next your heart?" A Medical student called out "Your lungs!" Doubtless if the "pep" organisers had foreseen the contingency, they would have ordered the crowd to yell, "McKenzie, old boy" or some other hardy perennial. Organised Yelling Kills Spontaneity. Your very truly, Gaudeamus and Ygoras.

The Editor, McGill Daily, Dear Sir:

May I through the mediums of your columns be allowed to address the freshmen of the year on behalf of the McGill Labour Club. You who are Freshmen and Freshettes of McGill, no doubt, all saw and heard Mr. Ramsay MacDonald at his recent visit to McGill University. I care say his personality, his grey head with its kind smile and pleasing eyes, impressed you all. Would you not all really like to know this man somewhat better?

The McGill Labour Club affords you an opportunity of so doing. By attending the meetings of the Club you will come into contact with the ideals which this man cherishes.

You have come to college not only to learn a way of living, but also to obtain a philosophy of life. The latter is considerably more difficult than the former. You have to acquaint yourselves with various ways of thinking, various points of view of life. The McGill Labour Club is here to help you in this matter. Through association with it you will get to know the aims and ideals of labor and social reformers, so that in your mind you may weigh these aims and ideals against others you may cherish. Any opinion, any point of view is welcomed in this Club.

As you will see elsewhere announced the first meeting of the Club this year will take place on Tuesday October 29th, when Professor Clarke will address the Club on "White and Black Labour in South Africa". A cordial welcome is extended to all interested.

Thanking you, sir, I remain Yours truly, Carl Bergithon, Convenor.

in Europe, Carl Bergithon and H. H. H. Harris will deliver the Papers. Election of Secretary will take place. Students in Economics are eligible to attend.

HELLO MCGILL!

..... gee! We're glad to be back. It sure is good to be together again. We were with you every Friday last year and we are looking forward to being with you every Friday this year.

But we hope to see you oftener than every Friday of course and judging from the group of new Coo-eds we see about us we won't be disappointed. McGill certainly is maintaining its reputation as 'lovers of great beauty.'

"None but the brave deserve the fair" we've been told well, there must be a lot of brave men at McGill. And listen brave men this is our own but its true "The fair deserve none but the best" that's a Standard.

That adorable vision of loveliness over there by the railings think what it will mean to win her favor. Then don't whatever you do, jeopardize her good opinion of you by asking her to ride in anything less comfortable, less clean, less cosy and warm, less luxurious than a Standard. She knows what's what and what's what when going places and doing things, is a Standard.

Sophs all know it's true. Freshmen all quickly learn that there'll be far fewer coughs, colds, chills, ear-aches, toothaches and heartaches IF YOU TRAVEL STANDARD.
